Additional Info:

I have an incredible knack for MS based Operating systems and troubleshooting both software and especially hardware issues. I am quite natural at command-line based systems as well. I understand the basic fundamentals behind computing, making adaption to new environments effortless. My experience with Linux is limited, but still being learned. I have built various types of servers for government facilities during my employment with computer zone, which are still being used to this day. I am incredibly competent in both the IT and NA departments, while I am not yet suited to manage an NA department specifically, I would be well suited for most any other position in either of those departments.
